C. R. McCullough, Esq.,

Hamilton.

Dear Mr. McCullough:

Mr. Emmanuel came to see me yesterday. I do not see very well what we can do for him. It seems to me that if he is going into public service it would have to be in his own country, and if he were to do so the best training would be in History and Political Science. Whether, however, he would get that better here or in England is to my mind doubtful. If he were to come to us he would of course have to pass his matriculation first, therefore I should advise him to go to a good collegiate institute for next winter. I imagine what faces him is the financial problem. How is he to get through his course, and I must confess that I do not see my way through this problem for him. We have no scholarship that could be put at his disposal, and unless some friends were to undertake to raise enough to keep him, I do not know how he would put himself through. He seemed to me to be a bright fellow, but there is always the difficulty of relating East and West.

With kind regards, I am,

Yours sincerely,

President.

Dear Sir:

In the absence of President Falconer in Kingston I beg to acknowledge the receipt of your letter enclosing an article from "The Times", which I shall bring to the attention of the President on his return to the office Monday.

Yours very truly,

President's Secretary.

Hamilton.

Dear Mr. McCullough:

Many thanks for your letter together with the clipping from the Hamilton "Times". I feel sure that we are inaugurating a national movement when we endeavour to provide instruction in the older Universities of the East for the students from the newer Universities of the West. Our ability to do so will depend to some extent upon the support that we get both from the public and the Government as influenced by the public. That this will come, however, I do not doubt. It is very kind of you to write as you have done. Please give my best remembrances to Mrs. McCullough.

Yours sincerely,

President.
